Communication skills

- I learned to work in groups and under pressure, managing relationships with colleagues on several occasions such as group exams at SVA in New York, during the preparation of musical performances and in the graphic direction of the online newspaper "L'Essenziale".
- In the ecumenical community of Taizé in France I learned what it means to open up to others, the meaning of the word "to share" and that a different world is possible.

Organisational / managerial skills

- While at University I organized theme parties for up to 200 guests in private villas, managed a small audio and light service and worked as a promoter for some clubs in the province of Salerno, so I learned how to manage a work group in many diverse situations, never losing sight of the target.
- I have also organized several trips (small groups) in various European countries.
